Rightlessness: Testimony and Redress in U.S. Prison Camps ...

In Rightlessness: Testimony and Redress in U.S. Prison Camps since World War, Paik investigates three distinct, but not isolated, sites of U.S. incarceration: Japanese Americans incarcerated during the Second World War, HIV-positive Haitian refugees detained in Guantanamo during the 90s, and Guantanamo's enemy combatants from the War on Terror. Through an investigation of each of these U.S. carceral spaces and personal testimonies, Paik argues that the rise of rights as a privileged ...

Rightlessness: Testimony and Redress in U.S. Prison Camps ...

The book, Rightlessness: Testimony and Redress in U.S. Prison Camps since WWII, examines how the U.S. state has continuously created rightless subjects by imprisoning them in camps, even as it has proclaimed itself the world leader of rights domestically and globally. It analyzes this key paradox of U.S. state power by focusing on three camps and the testimonies of their detainees: Japanese American internees who fought for and received redress in the late 1980s, HIV-positive Haitian ...
